Gun Attack Drives Courthouse Birds Away—for a Few Hours

County officials apparently lost their newest round with the courthouse tree-roosting starlings last night when, within a few hours from the time sheriff's deputies blasted 100 rounds of shotgun ammunition at them, they returned in droves to roost for the rest of the night.

The trees were black with birds and the sidewalks grew whiter by the hour just before daybreak today, and officers shook their heads.

"It's getting serious," County Commissioner J. D. Jones said this morning. "It can't go on like this."

The shotgun blasts worked for a while last night but the 1,200 birds killed by the shells were only a small fraction of the total involved. The failure of the shells to frighten the others away more than temporarily bears out the statement farmers have made about the starlings — they can drive them away from livestock feeding yards with gunfire but it isn't long until they're back again. Sparrows seem to be thoroughly frightened by guns, but not the starlings.

May Consult Experts

County commissioners today were considering seeking the help of bird experts at Ohio State university and possibly the state conservation division, although they feel certain there will be little help from either. "If there was an easy way to chase the birds away, Columbus with its droves around the statehouse and other cities that have been having trouble would have found out about it by this time," one official said.

Mr. Jones said he intends to bring up the starling problem at a nine-county meeting of county commissioners Monday night in Marysville to see if these officials have any new suggestions. So far, Roman candles and gunfire have been tried repeatedly here without success. The birds were driven away from a park in another city by squirting water on them, but county officials don't believe that would be very practical in the downtown area—and besides the birds don't stay scared but soon return.

Tree Trimming Considered

One step that might bring a partial cure of the nuisance was under discussion this morning, but it was merely in the proposal stage. It was to cut off the sycamore tree limbs that overhand the sidewalks along Main and Center streets. This, an inspection disclosed, would make a radical change in the appearance of the trees because the trunks are only a couple feet off the line of the sidewalk and the radical pruning proposal would leave the trees conspicuously lopsided.

Even this, however, would be only a partial cure. It certainly wouldn't help the motorists who park on Court street where overhanging telephone wires parallel the curb. Nor would it help the unwary person who happened to walk too close to the cornices of the courthouse itself.

Public Sentiment Considered

County officials are pretty noncommittal about the much-argued proposal to cut down the sycamores. Remembering the stir caused once before when the proposal was considered, they hate to mention it, but a casual visitor at the courthouse soon senses that the officials would have the trees removed if they felt this was the wish of the public—or at least wouldn't bring a storm of criticism upon them. A tree lover can whip up quite a bit of sentiment for the old sycamores and usually can make a pretty strong case for saving them. And the county officials can't afford to forget that tree lovers probably make up a sizeable portion of the voting public. It seems that officials are waiting to see who becomes more vociferous—the pedestrians who use the courthouse sidewalk areas or the tree lovers.

The newest attack on the birds used up 100 shells in last night's shooting. That leaves 150 shells in the latest supply bought by the commissioners. If those are used up without appreciable results,

Prosecutor Given $2,500 To Begin Investigation of Toledo Gambling.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Jan 7—County Prosecutor Joel S. Rhinefort today was granted an initial appropriation of $2,500 for an investigation and immediate presentation to the grand jury of evidence on Lucas county gambling spots.

Mr. Rhinefort acted shortly after he was informed of Gov Bricker's opinion that gambling in Lucas county can be eliminated under present laws by aggressive action on the part of local officials.

Gambling was reported at a standstill here today as Prosecutor Rhinefort announced a grand jury investigation of conditions which led a Detroit man to commit suicide and accuse gamblers of taking $30,000 from him in two years.

Sheriff Charles L. Hennessy said he and his deputies found only idle employes in known gambling establishments last night.

The prosecutor's announcement of a grand jury study followed warning from Gov. Bricker that the attorney general would investigate unless "all" gambling places were closed.

Rhinefort said he would present to the grand jury next week a full report of the inquiry into the death of George D. Wilcox, 48, of Detroit, found dead in a hotel room.

The governor asked for a con-

Allied Bombs Hit Targets in North France

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 7—American Marauder bombers smashed at military objectives in northern France today, keeping the round-the clock offensive rolling after RAF Mosquitos raided western Germany last night for the sixth night in succession.

The Marauders returned from their cross-channel sweeps in early afternoon without a single loss. The medium bombers were a part of the parade of allied fighters and fighter-bombers observed streaking across toward the French coast shortly after the Mosquitos returned from their night raids.

The bombers knifed into their targets and skipped away without losses at the hands of German anti-aircraft defenses or night fighters an air ministry communique said.

In addition to bombing unspecified objectives in Germany, the Mosquitos also stabbed at northern France and other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters, the bulletin declared.

The Mosquito raids were accompanied by air alerts in Geneva and other Swiss cities, the German-controlled Paris radio said today.

The previous night the Mosquitos staged a diversionary raid on Berlin while British heavy bombers pounded the Baltic port of Stettin almost unopposed.

In daylight operations yesterday over northern France six allied aircraft were reported missing. Three enemy planes were shot down.

Office Hours Changed During Dog Tag Period

The county auditor's office will be open Saturday afternoons and through the noon hours from now through Jan. 20, the deadline for buying dog licenses without penalty, Auditor Harry V. Mounts said today. The extra hours, he said, were decided on to encourage dog owners because only 1,265 out of a potential 6,000 in the county have purchased tags to date.

E. E. THOMAS TO SEEK 5TH TERM IN LEGISLATURE

First County Office Candidate To Announce Plans.

Earl E. Thomas of 168 Spencer street, now serving his fourth term as a member of the state legislature, announced today his candidacy for reelection.

He is the first county office aspirant to announce his candidacy for election in 1944.

In announcing his intentions to run for a fifth term, Mr. Thomas said he had played a small part in putting the state on a sound financial basis and was interested in maintaining the present policies. "I believe in a sizeable surplus for post-war work," he said, "but I feel that at least 85 per cent of the $70,000,000 accumulated surplus now on hand belongs to the people back home who paid it in taxes."

Mr. Thomas is married and has one son, Warrant Officer Harker Thomas, who is stationed at Camp Steward, Ga., and a daughter, Mrs. Jack Danner of Homer street.

Bricker Calls "Win the War" Slogan of Every Real American

Ohio Governor Critical of Roosevelt's Effort To Make Political Capital with Victory Motto.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Jan 7—President Roosevelt's suggestion that the motto "Win the War" be substituted for the New Deal was criticized here today by Gov. Bricker of Ohio, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Every American citizen has the right to resent any political leadership that assumes to take unto itself credit for winning the war," Bricker said. "The motto 'Win the War' became the motto of every real American on Dec. 7, 1941, and it must be the motto of all until the day of victory is here."

Addressing the Wayne county Republican Women's club at a luncheon meeting, Bricker said in addition to winning the war America has three vital questions to decide. They were:

"Shall government direct the lives of our people or shall the people direct the government so that it may aid them, individually and hopefully, to find their own way?

"Are we going to continue to march toward totalitarianism or are we going to preserve the free atmosphere which our people have breathed since our country was founded?

Question of Who's Boss

"Shall we maintain a great governmental structure to which people are subservient or shall we maintain those conditions which have led to the development of a great self-reliant people to whom the government is subservient?"

Bricker said the party in power had brought these issues to the front, and "our people are bewildered and startled by the extent to which their government has gone to become their master."

"Let no one be misled to believe," he said, "that the attack on business in this country, the subordination of local government, the suppression of the individual, the growth of bureaucracy are solely a part of the war program. They are essentially a part of the New Deal philosophy."

Asserting the country needed not only "a change in political leadership "but a change from the New Deal philosophy of government," Bricker offered the Republican party as the only hope of obtaining those changes.

Cites G. O. P. Policies

"The policy of the Republican party is that of promoting business, encouraging the individual, providing jobs in industry through a sound economy, and of releasing private enterprise by reasonable and sane tax legislation. A Republican victory will assure us here at home that no one party or office holder is indispensable," he declared.

"A Republican victory will be the assurance that in freeing the world from tyranny, we shall also free our people of unnecessary governmental domination and that the policy making power of government will be taken from the bureaucrats and placed in the hands of the elected representatives of the people."

Bricker declared the war could not be won "upon the New Deal defeatist philosophy of a mature economy."

"If our armed forces had no more faith in self-government than our political leaders have shown in the last 10 years we would not today be winning the war," he added.

YANKS PRESS ATTACK ALONG 10-MILE FRONT

Blast Germans from San Vittore Pillboxes with Hand Grenades.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan 7—With grenades, machine-guns and small arms American troops fought over the drenched stones of San Vittore and assailed three bitterly contested strongpoints in the fortified village today as the Fifth army pressed its offensive all along the 10-mile front straddling the via Casilina to Rome.

Forging ahead through the snow-covered mountains, the Americans stormed the strong defenses built by the Germans to cover the key town of Cassino six miles ahead of San Vittore. The Yanks captured the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Malo about a mile southwest of Vitteuso and five miles northwest of Venafro.

Seizure of Monte Maio cut the German supply road from Cevaro to San Vittore.

The Americans who entered San Vittore had taken more than half the town and now were driving on three clusters of grey tumble-down stone buildings where the Germans had barricaded themselves.

It was no-quarter fight with the Germans refusing to give themselves up.

The doughboys had to creep up to the pillboxes, toss grenades through the apertures and wipe out the defenders.

San Vittore is about two miles from San Pietro captured by the Americans Dec. 18.

The British on their southern leg of the 10-mile front pushed an attack at Rocca D'Envandro.

Snow Falls in Mountains

Cold weather with snow falling in the mountains and dense clouds obscuring the mountain tops impeded movement of the Eighth army on the Adriatic coastal front.

The weather grounded most allied aircraft, but A-36 invaders and P-40 Warhawks dive-bombed and strafed German gun positions and troop concentrations in the Cervaro and Aquino areas on the Fifth army front, and shot up the town of Fondi, northeast of Terracina as well as motor convoys and trains east of Rome.

Intercepting 20 German planes over central Italy, American Spitfires destroyed two for the only score of the day against enemy aircraft. No allied planes were lost yesterday.

INHALATORS BOUGHT BY CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Three Now Available for Use in Marion Area.

Two auxiliary adult face pieces and an infant face mask to be used with the new H and H inhalators recently purchased by the Marion county Civilian Defense unit, are expected to arrive here today, officials reported.

The new pulmotors were officially put into use on Dec. 1. The following day the firemen used one of them after being called to a home five miles south of Marion. While enroute to the hospital they gave oxygen to a new-born child. The physician called on the case was unable to go to the home in time to save the choking infant and later when the baby was being treated at the hospital, he stated that the inhalator had been a valuable aid in saving the child's life.

Purchase of the inhalators, which are kept at the Central Fire station, was authorized by the Civilian Defense Council. Until the new equipment arrived only one inhalator was available for emergency calls. Although there are actually only three machines, the auxiliary face pieces can be attached to the new pulmotors and two victims can be treated at the same time from one apparatus. By putting the three inhalators into service and using the two masks on each of the new machines, five persons could be given oxygen at one time.

The new equipment was bought at a cost of $507.50 and the purchase was made from the Mine Safety Appliance Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa. Records show that 17 calls were made during last year by the inhalator squad.

Heating Plant Break Closes Ohio Theater

Shows at the Ohio theater will be temporarily discontinued until a broken section of the furnace boiler can be replaced, John J. Huebner, manager, announced today. The boiler became faulty on Tuesday but was fired temporarily until a complete breakdown occurred yesterday, forcing the theater to close. Mr. Huebner said it would remain closed until further notice.

RECORD SET BY BLOOD DONORS

181 Volunteers Give 172 Pints on Second Day, Topping Previous High Mark.

A record breaking day was chalked up at the Red Cross blood donor center at Epworth Methodist church yesterday when 181 volunteers donated 172 pints of blood to aid in saving the lives of men and women in the armed forces. The figures top those of last August when 160 pints of blood were donated by 175 volunteers. Only nine persons were rejected because of colds or other illnesses, despite the prevalent epidemic. This figure would be a low percentage of rejections even in normal times, the unit staff states.

Volunteers today were from the Marion Steam Shovel Co. plant. This will bring to a close the three-day visit of the Columbus blood donor unit and staff headed by Dr. Michael Allegretti of the U. S. Navy.

Plans for the unit's visit here this week were in charge of the volunteer services group. F. F. McKinney is chairman of the Blood Donor unit. Assisting Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, special volunteer chairman, was Mrs. J. T. Mc

27 Soldiers Killed as Bus, Train Collide

By The Associated Press

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 7—Twenty-seven soldiers were killed and eight critically injured in the collison of a Kingman Army Air base bus and a Santa Fe freight train at the entrance to the gunnery school about 9 o'clock last night.

The air base public relations officers said all of the dead but one were aviation cadets who had been on a night gunnery mission at a range across the railroad tracks from the base.

Army officials said C. L. Hickey, Needles, Calif., engineer of the freight, said his train was going at the "usual speed of about 45 miles an hour" when he saw the flagman at the crossing wave down the bus.

Hickey was quoted by the public relations office as saying the bus appeared to stop and then went out of control.

Bodies and wreckage of the bus were scattered for about 100 feet along the railroad right-of-way. The bus was carrying 36 passengers, none of whom escaped injury.

The dead, identified by the public relations office, included Fred C. Vogley, husband of Mary Jane Vogley of Canton, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Clutter of six miles north of Marion were notified yesterday that their son, Second Lt. Kensel E. Clutter, 24, had been seriously wounded in action on the Marshall Islands on Dec. 19.

According to the telegram received from Adjutant General Ulio in Washington, D. C., Lt. Clutter is making normal improvement.

His parents will be advised as reports of his condition are received at the adjutant general's office, the message stated. Mr. and Mrs. Clutter received a letter from their son last week, dated Dec. 3.

FORCES SPREAD OUT IN QUICK THRUST AHEAD

Germans Appear Unable To Stop Fast-Traveling Russian Army.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 7—Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's forces, gaining new momentum after smashing 10 miles into pre-war Poland sped forward today in a great fan-shaped offensive toward lifelines vital to enemy operations in the Ukraine and Dnieper bend.

The Nazi appeared unable to halt the Russian machine.

Over a front of 175 miles from the lower Pripet marshes near Rakitno, 10 miles inside the old Polish border, to the flat steppe near Zhaskov, 10 miles south of Belaya Tserkov, the first Ukrainian army was ripping the Germans to pieces and capturing huge stores of booty.

In the Nevel sector, Gen. Ivan Bagramian's Baltic offensive sweep deep into strong cores of resistance where the German spectre of encirclement was the same as in the Ukraine.

Snowfalls and blizzards were an aid to advance patrols cutting behind Nazi lines and threatening the communications of the German forces before Leningrad, just as Vatutin's fast tanks and cavalry were a peril to the Germans' main lines leading to the Dnieper and the Black sea.

Few Reports from Bend Area

Vatutin's advance brought increased pressure on the Germans in Kirovograd and Krivoi Rog in the Dnieper bend, but there were few specific reports from those sectors.

(Stockholm newspapers quoted a German military spokesman as hinting at the possibility of German withdrawal from all Russia.)

Four communication centers lay within striking distance of Vatutin's Red forces:

Rovno, rail and highway center about 35 miles inside the old Polish border and 60 miles west of Novograd Volynski.

Shepetovka, 35 miles southwest of Novograd Volynski, vital Ukraine railway junction.

Vinnitsa, 70 miles south of Zhitomir and 60 miles from the Dniester, former boundary of Rumania.

And Zhmerinka, 20 miles south of Vinnitsa on the Odessa-Warsaw line which the Germans must hold if they hope to remain any place east of Odessa.

Drive Toward Sarny

Capture of Rakitno by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukraine army was announced in a Soviet communique last night and his vanguards were said to be pushing along the Kiev-Warsaw railway toward Sarny, 25 miles further west. Fall of Sarny would endanger communications between German forces north and south of the Kiev-Warsaw line.

Vatutin's left wing, meanwhile, was plunging south toward the Warsaw-Odessa railway, vital Nazi supply line to German troops in the Dnieper river bend.

Spearheading columns drove through Gorodnitsa, 20 miles northwest of Novograd-Volynski, and Chudnov, 28 miles southwest

German Defeat in Russia Blamed on Reserve Tardiness

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan 7. Slowness of the German high command in hurling adequate reinforcements into the old Polish border sector to plug the Russian breach in the Nazi east wall underscores Germany's great weakness of 1944—a potential basic factor for her total defeat.

That weakness is a lack of sufficient reserves for her colossal problem of defense.

The whole allied strategy apparently is aimed at wrestling victory through exploitation of this factor by bringing maximum pressure to bear on the greatest possible number of fronts.

As the hour nears for the great invasion from the west, the success of that strategy already is being reflected in the east, where the Red army is smashing head-on through defenses the Germans apparently fear to bolster at the cost of a cross-Europe shift of their thinned reserve force.

Large German Force

With five to seven million men under arms in all services, Germany is estimated to have from 300 to 325 divisions in the field. Russian Premier Stalin has said that 257 divisions are now facing the Red army.

The Russians alone probably

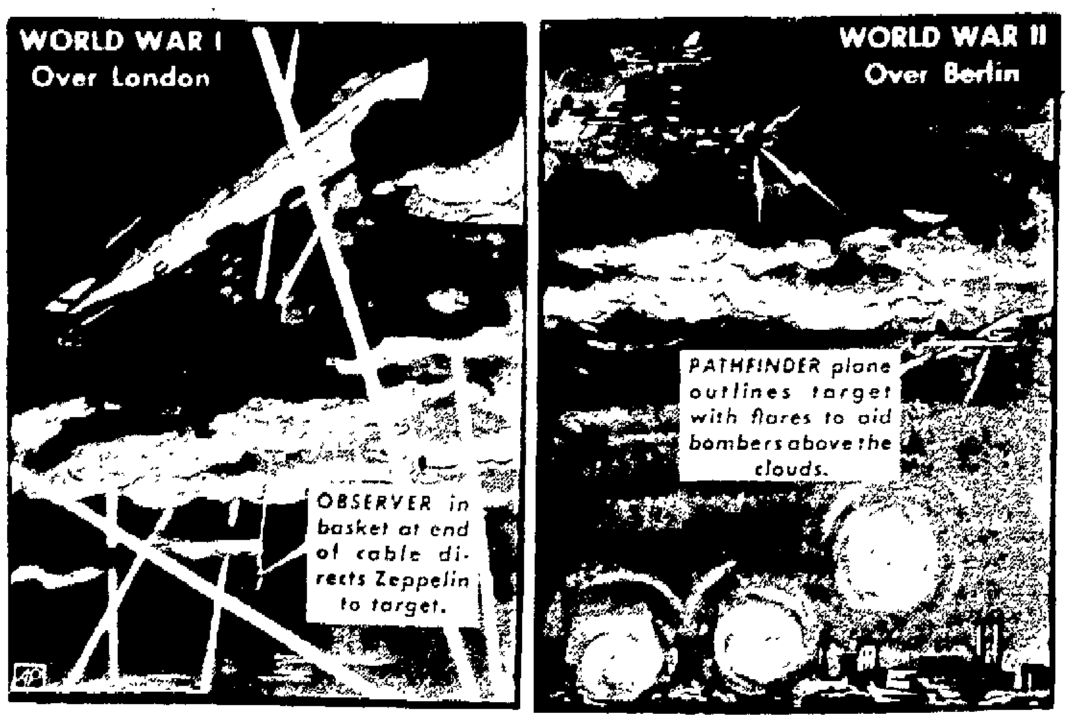
NEW EYES FOR ALLIED BOMBERS



WORLD WAR I
Over London
OBSERVER in basket at end of cable directs Zeppelin to target.
WORLD WAR II
Over Berlin
PATHFINDER plane outlines target with flares to aid bombers above the clouds.

THE SWIFT ADVANCE of combat aviation in a quarter of a century is thrown into sharp relief in this comparison of bad-weather bombing techniques. In World war I German Zeppelins dangled observers below the cloud cover over London to spot targets. In World war II scientific devices have been developed to do the job.

* * *

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK—"Cloud Bombing" is the latest vaguely-revealed secret weapon of the United Nations.

Without the braggadocio with which the Germans generally speak of their own secret gadgets long before they get around to attempting to apply them, the new raid-aid device—or devices—was put to work without fanfare. Even now not too much has been disclosed.

But enough information has come through the censor to indicate two basic factors make possible fairly accurate hits on targets far below—even when there's 25,000 feet of clouds—despite the fact they cannot be seen normally from the bombing plane.

These would seem to be:

A pathfinder plane system, in which perfected navigation methods have been adopted to enable precise location of targets regardless of weather. The pathfinders carry brilliantly-colored flares which they drop to outline the section to be hit.

Improved and enhanced radio devices, described as "both audiole and visual," which not only are applied to navigation, including more accurate use of the beam-signal path first developed in civilian aviation, but which no doubt are a factor in actual blind bombing.

Used In U. S. Day Raids

To these facts lately has been added the word that the U. S. Eighth Air force has been using the cloud system in its daylight raids since it first was revealed in RAF night attacks on Berlin late in November. Otherwise, overseas dispatches carefully avoid details.

Just how vital are the electronic devices employed can only be speculated upon.

Reference to "visual" methods might be taken to mean some application of television or related instruments.

It is the ability to make radio signals visual that was revealed as a component of the location and ranging equipment developed earlier in the war to spot objects at a distance by reflected signals.

Coupling of this appartus with the improved navigation aids could have resulted in something quite surprising, or at least the bombing results so hint.

The reference to television recalls that before the war experiments were conducted to make possible telecasting from an airplane. In one test, New York was so televised. Receivers all over the area were turned in.

Flares May Be Colored

The pathfinder-dropped flares play their part, no doubt, in the use of a color pattern, apparently reflected into the clouds for the sole benefit of the bombardiers.

In fact, one dispatch specifically stated: "A compact area was lit up in brilliant colors throughout the attack."

Electronic instruments may be a big help here also, coupled with possible use of infra-red rays and means of recording them.

Use of the radio-beam system for navigataion, in which a plane follows a specific signal path, has been extended further to make it possible for returning bombers to land on home bases even though they be blacked out by fog and mist.

A dispatch from Leo Branham at London, passed by the censor, reported that the beam has been so improved that it provides a returning bomber with both audible signals and a glide-path indicator on the instrument panel to give the plane's true position in respect to the field.

Radio beacons on the grounds are the actual guide to safe landings out of the gloom.

The $1,200 exemption for mar- ried persons is the total exemp- tion for a man and wife, regard- less of whether they have sep- arate income or whether they file separate or joint returns. The $1,200 exemption may be taken on the return of either the hus- band or the wife or divided be- tween them in any proportion they desire if they file separate returns on the long Form 1040.

A similar exemption of $1,200 is granted to others who qualify under the definition of "head of family" for tax purposes—for in- stance, single persons supporting aged parents, and widows or widowers supporting minor chil- dren.

Different methods of claiming these exemptions are provided in the two forms of tax returns—the short Form 1040A and the long Form 1040.

On the short Form 1040A you do not have to figure the amount of exemption. Instead, you need only check in one of the boxes (at the top of the back page) which expresses your family status (single, married, etc.) on July 1, 1943. Below these boxes is a table of taxes, divided into three columns. The form will show you which column to use according to which family status box you checked. In this man- ner you receive the benefit of the personal exemption, and your regular income tax can be found without any computation.

On the long Form, 1040, you must show not only the amount of the exemption you claim, but also for how many months of the year you were single or married or otherwise a "head of family." On this form, persons whose status changes during the year are required to prorate their exemp- tion accordingly. For instance, a couple who were married after three-fourths of the year had gone by would each be entitled to three-fourths of a single per- son's exemption (9-12 of $500, and together would also be en- titled to one-fourth of a married couple's exemption (3-12 of $1,- 200). If a married person dies during the year, his personal ex- emption is prorated for the period up to the date of death, and the surviving wife or husband is con- sidered "single" for the rest of the year, unless she or he re- marries or is entitled to the status of "head of family."

In the case of $624 victory tax exemption, the amount must be entered on both forms but is not affected by family status or by death. For any return reporting the income of only one person (either single or married, and in- cluding joint returns upon which either the husband or wife has no income), the exemption is a flat $624 in all cases. For any joint return in which both the husband and wife each report more than $624 income, each is entitled to $624 exemption, or a total of $1,248. For joint returns in which either the husband or the wife has income which is less than $624, they should add the amount of the smaller income and $624, and enter the total on their return. In this last instance suppose a husband had $1,000 in- come and his wife $200, the joint victory tax exemption will be $624 plus $200, or a total of $824.

If you are in doubt about the correct amount of your personal exemption, advice may be ob- tained readily from the office of the nearest collector of internal revenue.

Willkie Confronted by Sharp Competition in Middle West

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7—That one of Wendell Willkie's biggest problems as a presidential candidate lies in building strength throughout the mid-west is em- phasized by the fact that he ac- tually runs behind Thomas E. Dewey among Republican voters in his home state of Indiana.

The problem is further under- scored by the fact that in the area comprising Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan, as well as Indiana, Willkie's popular standing among voters who prefer a Republican for president is appreciably less than in New England or the Pa- cific Coast.

Among Indiana Republicans the Willkie vote today is somewhat lower than it was three months ago, while the vote for Dewey has increased slightly. However, if Governor Dewey remains out of the 1944 race, it will leave Willkie at the head of the list in so far as popular support is concerned, for he has nearly twice as many votes in the Hoosier state as any of the other leading presidential possibilities.

Republican sentiment on candi- dates was sounded in Indiana by interviewers for the Institute who covered a cross-section of the state's large cities, small towns, and rural areas.

Each voter was given a list of leaders who have been most often discussed throughout the country as possible nominees in 1944. The voters were asked to name their choice as of today.

The results, based on those who named a Republican, and a com- parison with last September, fol- low:

	Today	September
Dewey	35%	30%
Willkie	22	30
MacArthur	13	13
Bricker	13	12
Taft	11	11
Stassen	4	4
Johnson	2	*

*Not included in September list.

The vote in Indiana also high- lights Governor Bricker's problem as a candidate. Although he is the governor of Indinaa's neighbor- ing state, Ohio, Bricker's standing among Hoosier Republicans is comparatively low.

The following table shows how the four most popular Republican candidates, Dewey, Willkie, Gen- eral MacArthur and Bricker, stand today in the East Central section as a whole (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan):

EAST CENTRAL STATES
Dewey	37%
Bricker	21
MacArthur	15
Willkie	13

"WE'RE ALL IN THE SAME BOAT"

I PAY NO MORE THAN TOP LEGAL PRICES
I ACCEPT NO RATIONED GOODS WITHOUT GIVING UP RATION STAMPS

PULLING toward Victory is our common aim—from the little school child, regularly buying War Stamps, and helping in salvage collection —to the housewife doing her best with rationing, taking on a war job and civilian defense duties, and cooperating with every wartime government regulation! Backing her up—his hands strongly guiding his oars, is the storekeeper, making the best of manpower and merchandise shortages; firmly observing ceiling prices and rationing; just as the business man does his share by paying taxes in good spirit; running his office with a limited staff, and economizing at every turn of business operation.

And right in the same boat is the war worker, whose grimy hands and toil-soiled clothes are as symbolic of "gallantry in action as the soldier's mud-spattered uniform. He too, with all of us, is riding over the rough waves that war must bring, pulling hard and making straight for Victory—whatever sacrifice may be necessary!

Electricity Is Vital To The War Effort
— Please Use It Carefully

If you're putting out an unnecessary light, that's fine! But if you're putting on a light that you can do without, stop to consider whether it isn't more important that the current that light would need to burn—be available to power the war plants producing the fighting equipment our heroes need!

CHENNAULT'S FLIERS MAKE GOOD SCORE

By The Associated Press

AN ADVANCE U. S. AIR BASE IN CHINA, Dec. 22—(By Mail)—Fighting at the end of the world's longest supply line, Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's bombers and fighters have paved with destroyed Japanese airplanes the first part of the road which will lead to that big moment when they start the bombardment of Tokyo.

Operating with gasoline that costs more than $20 a gallon by the time it is delivered to them Chennault's fliers have knocked down so many more Japanese planes than they have lost the comparison is one of Tokyo's most painful pieces of reverse lend-lease propaganda. Japanese planes shot down by the various units range all the way from two or three to nearly a dozen to one.

There are no front lines of ground troops between the Japanese and American airbases, except in a few spots. The opposing airbases are within an hour's flight of each other, separated not so much by opposing armies as by terrain and the fact that neither side wants to put armies into this no-man's land because of the supply problem.

Yet these forces hammer away at each other, with the Americans steadily piling up advantage.

A partial score sheet of enemy planes shot down between June 3 and Dec. 10 does not include enemy planes destroyed in bombing operations against airports. It includes only planes shot down in air combat or in ground strafing operations where the destruction was by gunfire.

Conflicting Messages Revive Hope for Officer

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—The Navy reported yesterday that Lieutenant (jg) A. B. Hansen of the destroyer Leary which was sunk Christmas eve still was missing despite a conflicting telephone message Wednesday night which floored his bride-to-be in a faint.

"I have a message for you from the Navy," a telephone caller told Miss Ruth Bender Hall, daughter of the director of the bureau of engraving and Mrs. Alvin W. Hall. "Lieutenant Hansen has been saved."

The speaker identified herself as "Mrs. Mainwright, a secretary to a Navy official."

The Navy said it was unable to locate any secretary by that name and that Lieutenant Hansen still is missing.

Hansen had planned to arrive in the United States this week for his wedding. He so informed his mother, Mrs. H. Folmer Hansen of Fargo, N. D., a few weeks ago.

The lieutenant's mother is at the Hall home. One room is cluttered with wedding gifts.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

If, therefore, you are distressed by what you have regarded as only a "mild" case of piles, do not, by any means, allow that to be a reason for neglecting them.

Removal of piles is the only positive cure. This can be done without knife, drugs or loss of time from work.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 — Meat production last week was substantially above that of the same week a year ago, the war meat board reported today.

Pork showed the chief increase, 18 per cent. The slaughter of 199,000,000 pounds last week, however, showed a drop of 2,000,000 pounds from the previous week.

Beef slaughter of 109,000,000 pounds was up 15 per cent over a year ago, but 7,000,000 pounds less than the previous week. Veal production totaled 10,000,000 pounds, up 1,000,000 from the comparative week a year ago and 3,000,000 pounds over the previous week.

Lamb and mutton production was estimated at 16,000,000 pounds, compared with 14,000,000 pounds in the same week in 1942, an increase of 14 per cent, but a drop of 1,000,000 pounds from the previous week.

Animals slaughtered in federally-inspected plants during the week were estimated at 1,399,801 hogs; 233,482 cattle; 84,769 calves and 388,260 sheep and lambs, compared with 1,163,889 hogs; 185,007 cattle; 76,451 calves and 334,209 sheep and lambs during the same week a year ago.

Russian Rebuff

THE Communist newspaper Pravda's tart rejoinder to Wendell Willkie's plea for good feeling toward Russia in last Sunday's New York Times is a lesson in internationalism not only for Mr. Willkie, but all of us.

In this country, his remarks were construed as they obviously were written—as a sympathetic viewpoint on the Russian question. But Pravda rejects the sympathy because it was accompanied by remarks indicating that the future of Poland, the Baltic states and similar questions raised by Russia's success in the war and its expanding influence should be the subject of international determination. These matters, says Pravda in the Russian equivalent of words of one syllable, lie wholly in the sphere of Russian determination. Or, in two words of one syllable each, Mr. Willkie is off base.

That means, of course, that everybody else with the same notion is in the same fix, a version which comes a great deal closer to the ordinary American viewpoint of the matter than Pravda probably realizes. While the current credo of internationalism seems to call for Americans to help settle everything everywhere, even in this country there lingers a strong conviction based on previous experience with the credo that somewhere between spreading ourselves too thin and holding ourselves too aloof is going to be found the proper—or at least the practical—course of foreign policy. Pravda, which usually speaks for the Kremlin, may have used Mr. Willkie to clear up some points left obscure at Teheran.

Time's Test

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who died 25 years ago, is withstanding time's test. His observations on the problems he dealt with so aggressively in his lifetime are quoted today with telling effect. The vision he held of a strong, free America revitalized eternally by the rising strength of a people encouraged to better their condition under an uninhibited conception of enterprise is getting renewed attention. His views on this nation's proper place and responsibilities in a world society have been confirmed resoundingly by the experiences of war. A quarter of a century after his death the example of his dynamic leadership in politics and the impact of his vigorous personality on his countrymen still are keeping his memory green.

Men who knew him best—men whose lives were shaped in large part by contact with his greatness—are organized in a Memorial association to perpetuate his influence. While theirs is a great project, Theodore Roosevelt's influence is being perpetuated more widely than any association could hope for, in the steady development of this nation's influence. He was among the first to see the possibilities, and he was among the first to steer in that direction. Only a ghastly misunderstanding of destiny or a gross misreading of the mandate of responsibility given America by virtue of its own principles can swerve us in 1944 from the course Theodore Roosevelt set during his years of influence.

Year of Accomplishment

OUR preoccupation with the tremendous possibilities of a new year makes it difficult to realize that in perspective 1943 may have been the year of America's great accomplishment in the war.

Production statistics, military figures and shipping records tell only part of the story. A more important part is beyond exact calculation. It consists of an appraisal of the nation's fulfillment of its wartime destiny.

The war is vastly more than a test of arms. In final analysis, the strength of the arms, themselves, is determined by the strength of the people who employ them.

At the beginning of 1943 Americans wanted to believe they were capable of doing the job assigned to them by the circumstances of the war. We faced the belief of our enemies that we were incapable. It was a challenge to spirit as well as to security. We could not be too sure that the democracy was as strong as it needed to be.

The challenge was answered successfully during 1943. We proved to ourselves that we were adequate. With the task of proving it to our enemies still ahead, we can yet face it with the certainty that having performed the lesser part capably the remainder will be handled equally well.

We made, also, an important discovery—the discovery that in wartime anticipation outruns realization. The war did not end in 1943, as many wanted it to end and persuaded themselves that it would end. It may end in 1944, but there is less inclination now than there was a year ago to think that mere determination can bring it to a speedier conclusion than is made possible by the realities of combat, distance and terrain. But whatever happens in 1944 will have been predetermined by what happened in 1943—and at the beginning of a new year we may say with confidence that it was a year of tremendous accomplishment.

HANDS UP, FOLKS!

Study of the proposed new tax bill discloses it, too, carries an unconditional surrender clause. —Wichita Eagle.

News Behind the News

'Terrain and Weather Slow Allied Armies' Advance in Italy.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—The Anglo-American armies landed in Italy almost exactly four months ago (Sept. 9), have taken only a third of the boot, advanced only 15 miles along both coasts in the month of November, and only 7 or 8 miles on the Adriatic since then. This has been a somewhat startling disturbance to expectations, the most pessimistic of which in September anticipated the fall of Rome before Christmas.

The answer lies in technical military conditions and considerations not generally evident in dispatches from the front. The result could not have been otherwise.

Foremost is the fact that the Germans have thrown in these practically the same number of troops that we have—around 11 divisions (only 165,000 men compared with the Roosevelt New Year announcement that we have 3,800,000 troops overseas in all areas).

Secondly, the ground favors the Germans, is almost ideal for defense. From coast to coast, the line is only about 150 miles long. None of it is level. The hills and mountains have very narrow passes in which maneuver of troops is impossible, and tanks cannot be used on battle scale but only to occupy small towns and to attack positions occasionally.

Therefore, more troops could not be used by either side, unless a large amphibious movement to land on the coast in the rear of the line was attempted. We threatened such tactics at the outset, but found such an amphibious force would have to be extremely large to face the German forces available, probably larger than the troops available in reserve. At least we have not attempted such action.

With maneuver impossible, no battles could be fought. The fighting is typical of a Fifth army attack on Alife. Heavy artillery barrages were laid down on the supposed German line. Immediately after, waves of 6 and 8 dive bombers attacked at 10 minute intervals, dropping 500 pounders. The infantry then jumped off from the opposite hill, found no dead Germans in front or in the enemy positions, occupied them. Thus the fighting proceeds from hill to hill, sometimes without infantry contact (such strategy is wise to save lives).

Weather is frequently offered as a military excuse, but this time it added genuine impossibilities. Rivers were abnormally swollen with rains (they are generally only little streams 30 to 50 yards wide, but same are rushing and deep). Official movies recently shown at headquarters here revealed trucks sunk not only to the floor boards but even over the hoods of the engines.

Weeks To Prepare Lines

The Germans prepared the line they have held in recent weeks (Garigliano river on the east to approximately Pescara on the Adriatic) with Italian labor working since last October. They did not dig a continuous trench line and the warfare has not degenerated into the trench variety described by some observers. They constructed concrete pill boxes at advantageous hilly points and constructed intermittent defensive posts in depth. Instead of being trench warfare, as in France in the last war, the fighting has been hop-skip-and-jump from one of these hill posts to the next (the line occasionally being three miles or more deep). In many high places, we have had to send in food and ammunition to our men with pack animals. In these high mountain areas also, our troops had to be relieved frequently to thaw and dry out.

Our complete superiority in the air has been partly nullified by thoroughly rain-soaked and muddy aviation fields and zero visibility extending for weeks.

When the weather breaks, we may get something started again, probably in the next few weeks, at least before March. When we break this line, probably we can sweep on into Rome. Without organizing tremendous amphibious attacks, there seems nothing else to do.

Tedder: Invader No. 2

Regards Air Arm as Dealer of Haymakers.

THE Anglo-American high command must have thought back to the black days of Crete when it designated Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder as deputy to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the invasion army that will hit Hitler's fortress from a new direction.

For as a result of home criticism of that disaster, when the British army was pounded into defeat without air support, Tedder was promoted to air officer commanding in chief in the Middle East.

Tedder was an old hand at combat aviation who conceived the air arm as a dealer of haymakers for the ground forces. But he had no chance to put his ideas to work before Rommel struck early in 1942 and drove the British deep into Egypt.

When the great British counter offensive was mounting bombdazed German prisoners said they never had suffered such punishment from the sky. Tedder fitted this pattern of destruction into the intricate jigsaw of amphibious invasion of Sicily and Italy.

Two years out of Cambridge Tedder was commissioned in the Dorsetshire regiment in 1914, fought with honor in the Royal Flying corps in France and Egypt in World War I.

Peace years found him climbing steadily up the aerial ladder. When World War II broke Tedder was director general of research and development for the Royal Air Force, but in 1940 was shifted to the middle east as deputy air officer commanding in chief of the R.A.F.

In July of 1942 he was elevated to the temporary rank of air chief marshal.

SIR ARTHUR TEDDER
A Headquarters Bloke

Among his men, the 53-year-old Tedder, who does not look the warrior, is known as "The Chief." Short, lean, jug-eared, his twinkling blue eyes reflect a fondness for joking and wisecracks.

There is a story that he appeared unexpectedly and unrecognized in a squadron post — a favorite Tedder pastime—and was kidded by the men because he wore a regulation black tie.

"Oh," Tedder told the kidders, "I'm a headquarters bloke. You know how stuffy The Chief is."

Types of War Contracts

From Automotive War Production.

BY adapting mass production methods to the output of weapons, the automotive industry has been able to make sizeable reductions in the cost of the war to America's taxpayers.

Savings to the government as the result of manufacturing efficiencies, price reductions and voluntary refunds by automotive firms already run upward of a billion dollars.

The incentive to produce efficiently has been carried over from peacetime, and is further stimulated by the type of government contracts under which automotive plants operate.

The majority of contracts held by the industry are of the fixed type. This arrangement calls for setting a per unit cost for a certain war product.

Under such an agreement, the manufacturer can gain or lose, depending upon how well he runs his plant. If operating expenses, for instance, run $50 above the set price for a contract calling for 1,000 anti-aircraft guns, he would stand to lose $50,000. On the other hand, the more efficient his methods, the greater the margin of profit between cost of output and the "selling" price of the product, though under such a contract, profits are subject to constant renegotiation.

A second type of contract, cost-plus fixed fee enables production of new and unfamiliar weapons to get under way immediately when cost data is not available and time does not permit adequate preparation of plans.

The fee, over and above the cost, is a specific dollar amount which does not change with any variations of cost. Subject to audit, excessive cost items can be disallowed, thereby necessitating payment out of the fixed fee.

Another type, the management fee contract, provides for a specified fee to be paid for providing top flight management to organize and operate a wholly-owned government plant.

Contrary to belief on the part of some, there are no cost-plus-percentage contracts, wherein a contractor derives a higher profit if his costs zoom, in existence in the automotive industry. This type, which did encourage inefficiencies during World war I, was banned by congress in 1940.

Mass-Built Homes

By The United Press

HULL, ENGLAND—Mass production of attractive, modern post-war homes is proposed in Great Britain. One contractor, Robert Tarran, who has more than 2,000 workers in his building factories, says he can build 200,000 small homes a year, if the government will lend him 20 airdromes for factories.

Tarran believes that all old-time production methods should be abandoned. Under his scheme 50 men could build in a week a bungalow with large living-room, a stream-lined kitchen and bathroom, and two bedrooms.

Tax for New Wage Earners

By Alexander R. George

Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON—Thousands of wage-earners are going to get the shock of their lives when they find out the size of their federal income tax due this March 15.

They are the folks who had no taxable income in 1942 but were on a payroll during most of 1943. Those hardest hit will be mostly single persons (with no dependents) who were unemployed in 1942 but who obtained jobs early in 1943.

For example, a girl stenographer, single and no dependents, with a salary of $1,500 in 1943, will owe Uncle Sam approximately $85 on March 15 if she had no tax to pay on 1942 income. That represents almost three weeks' wages for her. If her salary was $2,500, she will owe the government $171, about 3½ weeks' pay.

Changeover Hurts

What puts her and many other new income receivers in a tight spot, temporarily at least, is the business of changing over from the old system of paying your taxes a year after receiving income, to the new method of paying as you earn. It's right costly for those who have to catch up.

Here's why it works that way:

When a taxpayer figures how much he or she still owes on 1943 taxes this March, he first computes the amount of his Victory and Income taxes for 1943. From that figure he is allowed to subtract the amount he has already paid in withholding taxes plus payments last year (usually March 15 and June 15) on his 1942 tax.

Now unless his 1943 income increased considerably over his 1942 income, crediting the payments on 1942 tax substantially reduces the sum he will owe on March 15. But if he didn't have any 1942 tax, he obviously is minus the credit.

The combined withholding of income and Victory taxes from wages didn't begin until July 1 last. Consequently the only tax paid on 1943 income during the first half of the year was the Victory tax. The taxpayer still owes income tax for January to July, and that's where the 1942 tax payments, if any, come in to reduce his March 15 bill.

Young Women Cause Worry

Internal Revenue bureau officials are frankly worried about the situation. There are thousands of war plant workers, government and store clerks who made their debut as wage earners in the income tax brackets last year. A large proportion are young women who know little or nothing about taxes.

If they filed a tax estimate and paid estimated taxes last September 15 and December 15, they probably "caught up" pretty well with taxes owed for the first half of the year.

But the filing of an estimate was compulsory only for those single wage-earners with incomes exceeding $2,700 and married wage-earners with income exceeding $3,500. Since the tendency of taxpayers, particularly new ones, is not to make out a more or less complicated return unless compulsory, the chances are few of the lower income workers filed an estimate and paid a tax.

The government has deferred payments in special hardship cases, but it will be difficult for many single persons without dependents to present a strong hardship plea. A lot of them had better begin tucking away dollars to cushion the March 15 blow.

Sneaky Is a Rat

Our Despised Pal, the Flu Germ, Has No Superior for Behaving a Most Unbecoming Manner.

By DAMON RUNYON

SNEAKY, the flu germ, has come to my [illegible] again to spread me flatter than a [illegible] charged soldier's wallet.

His visit reminds me that only recently one of my clients asked if I really believe Sneaky is an actual personality, one that I [illegible] and talk to and not just a figment of my imagination.

Well, as to that, I may reply that I [illegible] quite a chat with Sneaky no longer ago than last night. He is an old looking character with a short body and long legs. His head [illegible] to a distinct point. He has big protruding [illegible] and a castor-oil smile. He generally wears a top hat, cutaway coat, a wing collar with [illegible] bosom shirt, bow tie and striped trousers.

However, he has great facility for disguise so you might not always recognize him from this description. His age is problematical. I [illegible] known him many years and he never [illegible] any older or any younger. He entered [illegible] sick room without knocking, rested his [illegible] on the foot of the bed and sat down beside [illegible]

"Sneaky," I said, "why are you [illegible] stinker?"

"Why," he said, "that's something I [illegible] explain. I suppose I was born that way. It's [illegible] gypsy in me, I guess. You feel bad, I hope?"

"I FEEL awful," I said. "I think I feel [illegible] than I ever did before in my life."

"That's because I'm getting better," he said. "I'm punching harder. I've had [illegible] experience. I'm cleverer than ever. My opponents, the croakers, aren't able to hit [illegible] with a handful of sulfa-whats-this these [illegible] I have to laugh at the way I keep those guys floundering."

"Do you mean the doctors?" I asked. "T[illegible] catch up with you yet, wise guy."

"Ha, ha," sneered Sneaky. "That's what I [illegible] been hearing for years. They don't worry [illegible] even when they give me a new name. By the way, I knocked one over coming up here because I overheard him telling one of my customers there's lot of me around here, that everybody's got me. I'm tired of that dialogue."

"Sneaky," I said, "we have known each other a long, long time. We have practically been pals. I never did you any harm. I have thrown a lot of business your way. Why can't you lay off this old carcass from here on in?"

"WELL," Sneaky said, "it's a matter of principle with me. I've built myself up as an economic disaster in the way I belt out working muggs. If I passed you up, others would come looking for the same favor. Besides, in looking over my office records the other day I was reminded you tried to doublecross me a year ago. You thought you were putting something over on me but I knew about it all the time and have been waiting to penalize you."

"Why, Sneaky, old fellow, old partner, I never tried to cross you. Somebody has been giving you the wrong steer."

"Oh, yes you did," Sneaky replied. "I have a full and complete report on you. You have hurt me. You have wounded me to the quick. You appeal to me on the basis of our old friendship, yet you proved you did not trust me. You went behind my back."

"How, Sneaky? What did I do?" I asked.

"Did you or did you not a year ago take serum injections designed to keep me away from your door?" demanded Sneaky sternly.

"Look, Sneaky," I said. "I can explain that. It was just for a gag. I was going to tell you so we could laugh together at the idea of anybody trying to keep you away, and—"

But Sneaky had disappeared. In his place sat the medico saying: "Yes, sir, sure lots of it around now. Everybody's got it."

plete report on the inquiry and said if an investigation by the attorney general's office became necessary he would seek to determine "the failure of local officials to enforce the law."

Three raids were made on gambling establishments outside the city last night and Sheriff Hennessy reported 27 persons taken into custody.

Eighty per cent of the automobiles parked outside one establishment bore Michigan license plates, Capt. Arthur Kaufman of the sheriff's office reported.

The roundup came after the governor had remarked that law enforcement was a matter for local officials, and that "there is not a gambling place in the state that could not be closed if local officials want to act."

Hennessy said there was a standing order to "eliminate gambling," and that he would "enforce the law within the law." Rhinefort ordered Hennessy to post a 24-hour guard at all suspected gambling places.

Coroner Frank G. Grett said Wilcox apparently swallowed poison, after leaving a series of notes complaining of his losses to Toledo gamblers.

MAN, WOMAN DEAD IN MURDER AND SUICIDE

Well-to-do Farmer Kills Woman and Self.

By The Associated Press

DEFIANCE, O., Jan. 7—Sheriff Roy Bates said today he believed the fatal shooting of Mrs. Connie Cordray, 39, and Clyde Parrish, 45, was a case of "murder and suicide."

Parrish, a well-to-do breeder and exhibitor of Beligan draft horses, telephoned Bates late yesterday. "I have something to tell you."

When the sheriff arrived at Parrish's home near here, Parrish was lying unconscious on the kitchen floor with a bullet wound in the right side of his head and a .38 caliber pistol in his right hand.

A note on the table said: "I shot a woman at 607 Ravine avenue, Defiance." the sheriff said. He found Mrs. Cordray dead of a bullet wound in the head.

Parrish died in a Paulding hospital.

Mrs. Cordray, a restaurant cook, was the wife of Edward Cordray, a city employe, and the mother of a 14-year-old high school freshman.

Parrish was divorced about a year ago. He is the father of four children.

Polish Expansion At Expense of Nazis Proposed

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The newspaper "Prefree Poland," published in Moscow, calls for post-war extension of Poland westward at the expense of Germany, and warns the Poles that Russia won't give up the Polish territory which the Soviet occupied in 1939 when Hitler began his effort to conquer the world.

The Moscow dispatch which reports this development doesn't identify "Prefree Poland" but the publication may be associated with a Polish organization having the approval of the Soviet government. In any event, we are safe in assuming that the paper wouldn't be permitted to print such an article if it was disapproved by the Red authorities.

"Prefree Poland" has been daring. The idea which it advances is sensational and, from some viewpoints, undoubtedly provocative. Still, it strikes me that publication of this bold suggestion may help ease the tense Russo-Polish situation and so brighten the councils of the big three—Russia, America and Britain.

No New Idea

Such a solution of the Polish imbroglio isn't, of course, a brand new thought. A lot of folk have been wondering quietly why Germany shouldn't be made to foot the bill, since she has been the cause of the world's greatest ills during the past generation of turmoil. Speculation along this line, however has been restrained because of its inflammability.

So far as my advices go, there are many people high in allied circles who definitely would like to see Germany split up into its component states after the war. My guess is that Russia, for one, would be contented with such a program. It isn't a far reach from this to "Prefree Poland's" advocacy that some portion of the reich go to Poland.

After all, who weeps at the thought of Germany paying for some of her crimes?

Unless Moscow unexpectedly changes its position, Poland must look to the reich for territorial compensation. The Soviet government has time and again, right up to the present, made it emphatically clear that the Russo-Polish frontier is the 1939 line, and that Poland won't get that eastern territory back.

Grounds for New War

What's the alternative to acceptance of Moscow's claim? There's no use mincing words: all the signs read that any effort to compel Russia to surrender the disputed area would precipitate another world war.

Russia points to her maps and history and says this territory must return to her because it's ethnologically White Russian and Ukranian. Also, say the Muscovites, this land was lost by Russia to Poland as an aftermath of the last war.

It's easy to understand the heart burnings on both sides of this dispute. But despite hot words, no nation has yet come forward to say that it wants to take a hand in settling the issue with bombs and guns.

While Russia claims Poland partly on racial grounds, the Poles are able to advance similar arguments as regards considerable German territory. A portion of German East Prussia is racially Polish. So is a slice of Silesia.

East Prussia for Poles

Those who have been pondering this question have been thinking along the lines of Poland receiving East Prussia, the once free city of Danzig and a slice of eastern Germany as compensation for the territory that Russia is at this moment in process of reoccupying. It might be necessary to transport the German residents of these areas to Germany, to avoid the racial conflict which have been the curse of eastern Europe for centuries.

The attitude of the Polish government in exile to "Prefree Poland's" proposal will be awaited with concern. Should the Poles feel able to subscribe to this idea, it might provide a solution for one of the most difficult problems which the allies have to face. Premier Mikolajczyk, speaking in London last night, strongly hinted that Poland won't yield easily, if at all, to Russia's claims. He did say, however, that "irrespective of political situation" the Russian offensive "brings nearer the moment of our final reckoning with the Germans."

ALLIES MOVE ON JAP BASE

By The Associated Press

Allied troops moved menacingly toward the Japanese base of Madang on the north coast of New Guinea today as American Marines across the Vitiaz Straits counted 600 more enemy dead in fierce jungle fighting at Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

Striking at other Nipponese positions in the Bismarck Archipelago, the third carrier-plane attack on Kavieng, New Ireland, since Dec. 25 damaged two Japanese destroyers and wiped out 10 planes. An additional 10 enemy aircraft were shot down over Rabaul, New Britain.

A possible hint a mighty an offensive may be unleashed against Japan's capital was thrown out in Los Angeles by Adm. William F. Halsey, commander of South Pacific forces, who has returned to the mainland for war conferences. When American troops get to where Tokyo now stands, he said, there will be "a little celebration where Tokyo was."

American and Australian soldiers, in separate drives scored ground gains in the direction of the Madang area, where allied bombers left a 243-ton load of explosives Wednesday afternoon.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch which, if not mere propaganda, would indicate reinforcement of the American invasion force at Saidor, 55 miles southeast of the Madang supply, shipping and air base. It said Australians had made "new" landings at "Cape Gumbi" on the north coast of New Guinea.

Americans striking out from Saidor contacted the enemy 10 miles to the northwest, while Australians moving up the coast between Saidor and the Huon peninsula on the south reached a point within 67 airline miles of the U. S. Sixth army's position.

Japanese losses since the Marines landed Dec. 26 at Cape Gloucester rose to more than 2,000 during bitter jungle fighting on the western end of New Britain.

Strike Halts Work in Cramp Shipyard

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7—A work stoppage halted production of invasion ships for the navy at the vast Cramp Shipbuilding Co. yards for the second day today, with leaders of 17,000 workers asserting operations would be resumed if the Navy takes over the plant.

The yard's gates, closed early yesterday, were thrown open today while a crowd of about 6,000 workers milled outside. Only a few walked in, however, and union spokesmen said they "took the position that they were locked out, and now they are going to stay locked out until this thing is settled."

The company termed the stoppage a strike.

County Loses 5,101 Voters During 1943

The number of qualified Marion county voters dropped by 5,101 in 1943, Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel told The Associated Press in Columbus today. Registered electors as of November totaled 11,755. New registrations in the county during 1943 totaled 500, Hummel's report stated.

The total number of voters in the state decreased by 411,473 during the last year. Total actual losses during the year amounted to 541,166, but this was partially offset by 126,693 new registrations.

A total of 32 counties in the state reported losses. Only other county in the Marion area listing a loss was Richland county, where the qualified voting population decreased by 6,421. A total of 11,850 registered voters were listed in November. New registration during the year totaled 1,456.

Charles G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the Marion county board of elections, said the marked drop was a result of the failure of a large number of registrants to vote in the last two years. The board presumes, he said, that a large part of those whose names have been removed from the qualified list of voters are men and women now serving in the armed forces.

SUSPENSION OF PORK RATIONING IS URGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—Congressional demands for a two-week suspension of pork rationing to relieve hog-glutted livestock markets were underscored today by a threat from midwestern senators to force that step by legislation, if necessary.

On the other hand, war food administration (WFA) officials say reduction of pork ration point values is aggravating the butter shortage since some consumers are using points formerly spent for pork to buy butter.

Government food officials have refused to order a pork rationing holiday on the ground it would result in maldistribution of available supplies and might lead to a shortage later.

But congressional demands have been renewed with Senators Reed (R-Kas), Wherry (R-Neb), Johnson (D-Colo) and Thomas (R-Idaho) leading the move for a rationing recess. Asserting if relief isn't forthcoming from the office of price administration and WFA next week, he would introduce legislation to force pork off the ration list temporarily, Reed said some midwestern livestock markets have clamped embargoes on hogs because packing house storage facilities are overburdened.

As a result, he said, farmers are forced to take losses because they must continue feeding hogs after they should be marketed.

John J. Madigan, chief of the OPA meat rationing division, contended most of the market glut was due to packers' inability to handle more pork because of manpower difficulties.

Dorothy Lamour Denies She Hinders War Plant Work

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 7—Dorothy Lamour, of the sharpely sarong, says it just can't be true that her war-factory appearances hamper production and "the next time Secretary Morgenthau asks me to go on another bond-selling tour, I'm going."

Advised that Unionist Zelma E. Monahan had told the Cleveland Federation of Labor Wednesday night that she had heard the actress "was responsible for the loss of thousands of man hours when she went through war plant and stopped work," Dotty exclaimed:

"A hazard to war production, he calls me. Well, I like that!"—her tone making it clear she didn't!

"The only times I've ever been in defense plants were on bond selling tours, made at the request of the treasury department. I never talked to the workers except during their lunch hours and if anybody lost a minute of time because of my visit, I don't know about it."

In Cleveland last night, Miss Monahan told a reporter she would apologize to Miss Lamour by letter. A member of the office workers' union, she had made her statement to cite what she termed an example of production loss attributable to causes other than strikes.

"I meant nothing personal," said Miss Monahan. "I know Miss Lamour's motives are the highest. If I were in her place under similar circumstances I too probably would go on bond tours."

However, she insisted celebrities' visits to factories impeded production.

"They should restrict their activities to entertaining the boys in camp," she declared.

Great Damage Reported in RAF Raid on Stettin

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7—An eyewitness to the RAF's Wednesday night raid on the German Baltic port of Stettin said today he heard reports within that battered city that 1,000 persons had been killed.

The traveler said extensive damage was done to the harbor area, an important feeder line to German forces in Finland and along the Baltic front.

Two huge storage tanks, one containing gasoline and the other oil received direct hits and were still burning when he left Stettin earlier today, this traveler related. He said fires broke out in five anchored merchant ships.

The newspaper Morgon Tidningen had reported earlier that 60,000 persons were left homeless.

New U. S. Air Hero Reported Missing As He Ties Record

MAJ. GREGORY BOYINGTON

OKANOGAN, Wash., Jan. 7—By a tragic twist of fate, Maj. Gregory Boyington was reported missing in action only a few hours after the Washington farming community rejoiced at the news of his entry into the Marine corps hall of fame by downing his 26th Japanese plane in combat over Rabaul.

The 31-year-old former "Flying Tiger" joined Marine Maj. Joe Foss of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, of first World war fame, as co-holder of the 26-plane record of aerial "kills" for U. S. fliers. He did it in a sweep over New Britain four days ago.

But Greg (Pappy) Boyington did not come back from his triumph.

To Mrs. E. J. Hallenbeck, his mother, came the grim Navy department telegram last night: "We regret to inform you . . ."

His mother expressed faith "Greg" would come through safely.

She had recalled in an earlier interview how her son had told her upon his 1935 enlistment in the Marine Corps for air service:

"Mother, nothing will stop me . . . This is what I have wanted [illegible] all my life . . . This is the only thing I'd ever want to get up before breakfast for - to fly."

She recalled the letter he wrote to her Dec. 15: "The Japs are getting pretty scarce out here, and I doubt if I will be able to beat Joe Foss' record before I am sent home."

She recalled a Dec. 20 letter to his step-father, in which he said:

"As you have always taught me, there is nothing worth while unless you earn it . . . * * *

"I have learned that many things have to be used to achieve a good purpose. I have had to send men to their deaths * * *

"The only consolation I have is that I led my boys into everything they went into."

Gregg Boyington led his men, too on that sweep from which he failed to return, the Guadalcanal report said. More than 50 fighters participated in the night and shot down six of 20 intercepting Zeros, with five more listed as probables.

Other members of "Boyington's Blacksheep" squadron expressed belief the major destroyed 10 Zeros in all. Only those seen to crash, explode or burn are listed in the confirmed score.

Boyington was born at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. His father, Dr. C. B. Boyington, is a dentist at St. Maries, Idaho.

Boyington is the father of an 8-year-old boy and two younger girls. His marriage ended in divorce.

New Rocket Plane Successful

U. S. and British Develop Jet Propelled Fighter of High Speed; Goes Into Production Soon.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—Whole new vistas of rocket plane travel were opened today with disclosure that a fighter plane using "jet propulsion" has been developed and pronounced a success.

The new plane, visions of which awakened scientific research years ago, was announced jointly last night by the Army air forces and the Royal air force. It already has completed several hundred test flights without mishap, and quantity production will begin soon.

Today's planes of orthodox design have about reached their speed limits, and jet propulsion has been regarded as the logical next step.

Jet propulsion—commonly called rocket propulsion—eliminates the propeller. Instead of a propeller "biting" into the air to pull the plane forward, jet propulsion, a series of powerful explosions, not unlike a fourth of July skyrocket, push it forward.

The propeller performs satisfactorily at speeds up to 400 miles plus, but the limit is believed to be substantially below 500 miles.

Few details of the new fighter can be expected until it has gone into actual combat, and its secrets are known to the enemy, but the formal announcement that the plane operates "at high altitudes and extreme speed" can be taken to mean the United Nations have, in fact, a secret weapon. The only other detail announced was that it is a twin-engined plane.

The Italians are reported to have made the first flight in a jet-propelled plane several years ago. The plane then disappeared from the scene, presumably because of the Italians lacked facilities to carry on development.

Laboratories in Germany also have been reported working on a jet-propelled plane, and German experiments with rockets to assist takeoff and increase emergency speed have been reported.

The New British-American plane uses engines designed and developed by Group Captain Frank Whittle of the RAF. The kind of fuel Whittle's engines use was not disclosed, but one advantage of jet engines—in theory, at least—is their ability to utilize any fuel that produces high temperatures.

The 18-year-old girl was fined $20 and costs by Judge W. Dexter Hazen and the 21-year-old woman was fined $25 and costs. Court records show the latter, arrested the previous day on an intoxication charge, was then fined $10 and costs. Police say she is married and has two small children.

U. S. YARDS BUILD 65 CARRIERS IN YEAR

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—American shipyards working at high speed and doubling the size of the navy in a year, built 65 aircraft carriers of all types in 1943.

James Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, disclosed this record figure on carrier production today in a speech prepared for the Beekman hospital fund drive.

The undersecretary reported that six 27,000-ton carriers of the Essex type were included in the total. In addition nine light carriers of the 10,000-ton converted cruiser type and 50 escort carriers were turned out.

"The United States Navy," Forrestal said, "now has in being forces which constitute the greatest sea and air striking power in history * * *.

"What shall we do with this power when the war is over?" he asked. "Shall we destroy it as we did a quarter of our combatant tonnage in 1922 and go back to bed for another 20 years * * *?"

Quoting the statement of Prime Minister Jan Smuts of South Africa that "peace without power remains an empty dream," Forrestal asserted Smuts said "in substance that peace was obtainable only if guaranteed by the power of nations who want peace."

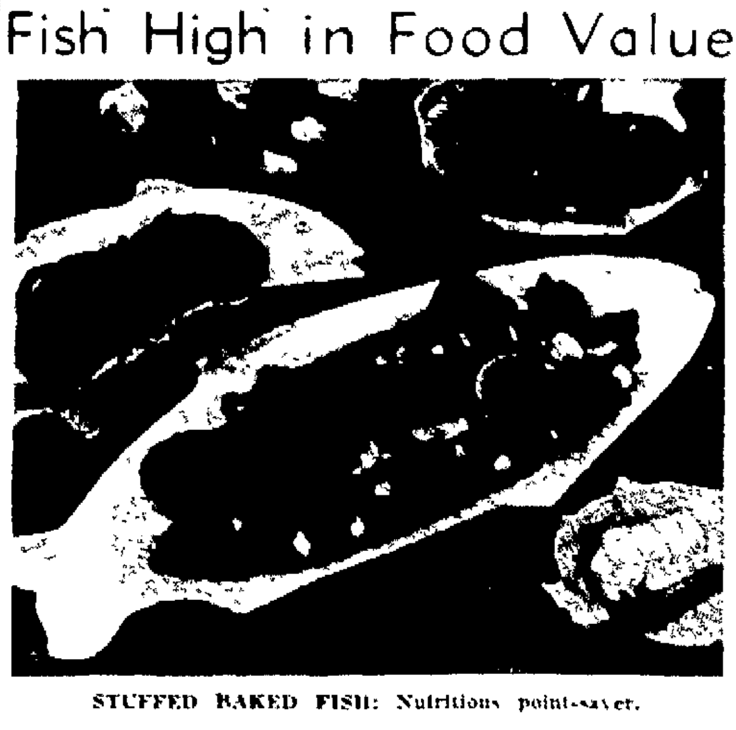
Fish High in Food Value



STUFFED BAKED FISH: Nutritious point-saver.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Food Editor

Don't let the lower point values of some meats lead you to overlook the value of fish in providing meal variety plus the proteins and minerals to keep the family fighting fit.

Although fish is not as abundant as in pre-war days, markets in some sections of the country are fairly well supplied. A bland fish with a perky sauce is a taste-tempting winter dish.

Fish cakes, chowders and fish pies are easy, economical and nutritious main dishes. Serve a sprightly salad to give balance and zip to a meal when fish holds the center of the stage.

BARBECUED FISH has a lot of flavor-appeal. To serve four, select a pound of fresh or frozen steak or fillets. Wash with cold water and pat dry with soft paper. Sprinkle with flour, salt, pepper and celery salt. Brush both sides with melted fat. Arrange in a shallow baking pan and bake or broil 10 minutes. Turn and brown the other sides and baste with barbecue sauce.

Make the sauce like this: Mix together 1 cup tomatoes, 1/4 cup each chopped onions, celery and grated carrots, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon each paprika, worcestershire sauce and chili powder, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, and 2 tablespoons each margarine and vinegar (all simmered together, covered, for 5 minutes). Cook the fish 15 minutes and baste it about five times to use up all the sauce.

Serve with a green salad, hot biscuits and honey—and of course there is no better dessert than lemon cream or deep-dish cranberry pie.

STUFFED BAKED FISH is a real treat for a winter meal. Select a 3 or 4 pound fish for baking. Have it well cleaned. Wash, rinse and dry the insides. Sprinkle lightly inside with salt and fill with the stuffing. Simmer 5 minutes 1/4 cup each chopped celery and onions in 3 tablespoons minced suet, salt pork or other fat. Stir in 2 cups cubed bread, 1/4 teaspoon each of salt, pepper and poultry seasoning, 4 tablespoons fortified margarine or butter (melted), 1 beaten egg and 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

Place the stuffed fish in a shallow greased pan. Brush top with 2 tablespoons melted shortening, and 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Sprinkle with a little salt and paprika. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 40 minutes. Baste every 10 minutes with 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 3 tablespoons shortening mixed into 1/2 cup boiling water.

Buttered spinach or spiced beets, a quick bread such as muffins or hot rolls and jellied fruit salad team nicely with this baked fish. For dessert have plain cookies and hot tea or coffee.

DEVILED SHRIMPS AND RICE make very good winter fare. This baked main-dish needs little watching while cooking. Brown 1 cup boiled rice and 1-3 cup each chopped onions, celery and green peppers (optional) in 4 tablespoons fat, heated in frying pan. Add 1/4 teaspoon each of paprika and dry mustard and 1 tablespoons flour. Blend and add 2 cups milk, 1 cup cooked shrimps and 1/4 cup chopped green or ripe olives. Cook slowly for 3 minutes. Pour into greased shallow baking pan and cover with 1/2 cup buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Shoe Makers Given Extension of Time

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Jan. 7—Shoe manufacturers throughout the nation have been given 13 additional days in which to sell their substitute-sole products at current prices, under new OPA regulations, the New England Shoe and Leather association announced yesterday in a statement that said OPA had "earned the highest commendation of our industry" in allowing the extension.

Dec. 28, OPA ruled that new maximum prices on the substitute-sole shoes would go into effect Jan. 11 for manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, the new prices to be "somewhat lower" than current scales.

The New England group asked that the amendment be made effective at later dates and today's announcement said OPA had agreed to set the manufacturers' date back to Jan. 24 and the date for wholesalers and retailers to March 1.

STRIKES IN U. S. DOUBLED IN 1943

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The number of strikes in 1943 was almost double the average for the 15-year period preceding Pearl Harbor, a study of the records of the bureau of labor statistics showed yesterday.

The 1943 total, with December roughly calculated on the basis of the preceding 11 months, was 3,737, compared with a 1927-41 average of 1,945 and a 1942 total of 2,968.

The number of man-days of idleness in 1943, however, was slightly below the 15-year average although the 1943 working force was much greater. This would indicate that last year's strikes were of much shorter duration.

The 1943 man-days of idleness totaled 13,917,273.

The 15 pre-Pearl Harbor years, of course, involve a smaller number of potential strikers than 1942 and 1943. They also include depression years when strikes were negligible. In years of business progression, the number of strikes and man-days of idleness substantially exceeded the 1942 and 1943 figures. For example the man-days idle in 1937 were 28,424,857 and strikes reached a total of 4,740.

Foster Lays Plans for Another Good Race Meet for Marion in Spring

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Sports Editor, The Star

[illegible] Foster [illegible]

[illegible] Bucyrus [illegible]

For [illegible] a thirty-day meeting [illegible] in August.

But [illegible] Foster plans to extend the spring meeting beyond the 15-day mark. He is considering a 19-day meeting spaced over a four-week period [illegible] final choice [illegible] Marion's biggest all-time harness program.

Everything hinges on what steps are taken by the Grand Circuit at its [illegible] meeting later this month. If the racing Grand decides to stage another big program at North Randall near Cleveland, chances are the Marion meeting will be [illegible]. However, if the Cleveland program is trimmed to a March, it is likely to go the full month, Foster states. And if the 19-day racing schedule is adopted [illegible] the big features will be a big Fourth of July program.

Best Horses May Come

Regardless of what action is taken at the Grand Circuit conclave, a big meeting is definitely in store for Marion. Coming as it will before the Cleveland racing season, the Marion program will again attract a big share of the big-time racing stables. Don't be a bit surprised if the greatest racing stock stops off here on the way to Cleveland. Although Marion stakes will naturally be smaller than those offered in Grand Circuit competition at North Randall, most of the country's foremost horsemen will welcome a Marion meeting as a chance to prepare for the bigger money.

At the spring meeting last year purses did not exceed $600 in any one race. However, this year Foster is promising horsemen a more attractive card from their point of view. Included in his plans for the get-off meeting are some $1,000, $1,500 and $2,500 stakes for both gaits featured by a free-for-all pace which is likely to attract King's Counsel, world's champion three-year-old, Eddie D, Carty Nagel and other shifty side-wheelers.

Hambletonian Preview

Also the Marion meeting is likely to offer a preview of the nineteenth running of the Hambletonian, the $40,000 classic for three-year-old trotters. To bring these candidates together Foster is planning a three-year-old trot with a fancy prize tag attached. The event's likely to match Eva's Boy, the leading two-year-old money winner of 1943 owned by Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus, and Yankee Maid, owned by A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kan., not to mention Preston Hanover, a Maine-owned-trained candidate.

Drivers, trainers and owners in all parts of the country have flooded Foster in recent weeks [illegible] for 1944. Among those [illegible] at Marion are Harry Fitzpatrick, [illegible] a fine string at Orlando, Fla.; Dr. L. L. Baker, [illegible] Harry Thomas, who is training Yankee Maid at Orlando; Eddie Havens of [illegible], N. C.; Bob Pixley of Canton, O., and a [illegible] of more Ohio fast [illegible] owners.

Definitely expected to better things here next year are the [illegible] improvements which are being made at the spacious, tree-shaded fairground plant. The track [illegible] has been graded and [illegible] weather conditions permit. Also [illegible] stables [illegible] capable of housing 175 head of horses, are being repaired and early in the spring [illegible] a new paint job. The fair board, in its annual report presented today, states that $5,[illegible] has been set aside from last year's receipts for the painting and repair of the fairgrounds buildings.

Again as in previous years the spring meeting will be staged under the auspices of the Women's Board of the Marion City Hospital.

Football Rules Boss To Follow Well-Marked Path

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7—A policy of following in the footsteps of his three great predecessors as chairman of the football rules committee, which will go into effect after the war, was announced today by the newly appointed William J. Bingham, Harvard athletic director now on leave of absence as a U. S. army Lieutenant colonel.

"It is my hope and intention to be a worthy successor to the three outstanding men who have preceded me to the chairmanship of this important committee," Bingham said. "Since 1905, when President Theodore Roosevelt demanded that college authorities reform college football, the rules committee has had three chairmen: Walter Camp, 1906 to 1911; Edward K. Hall, 1911 to 1932; and Walter R. Okeson, 1932 to 1943."

Bingham explained he was opposed to holding a meeting of the rules committee during the duration of the war. He pointed out that at the last meeting, held in Tucson, Ariz., after the 1941 football season, his immediate predecessor announced that the rules would be frozen for the duration.

That decision, to Bingham's mind, was a wise one for, he said, college football has been played under abnormal conditions for the past two seasons and eligibility rules and amateur standards have been relaxed for the duration.

"Our most important job right now is to concentrate on getting the war over with as quickly as possible," Bingham continued.

Byron Nelson Favorite in Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7—He hasn't fired a shot but Toledo's Byron Nelson is the [illegible] Los Angeles $12,000 open golf championship favorite.

A field of 135 set out today over the Wilshire country club in quest of first prize, $4,375 in war bonds, among them 20 top flight professionals and amateurs who were exempt from the 36-hole qualifying test Wednesday.

There will be 18 holes today and tomorrow, then the field will be cut to the 60 low scorers, plus ties, and these will fight it out through Sunday and Monday.

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
Associated Press Features Writer

CAIRO—American football has made a perspiring debut in the Land of the Nile amid the stifled yawns of the astonished British.

There were no modulated shouts of "Well done," "Jolly good," or "Bloody fine." Not a monocle was dropped.

Which is to say the British and their imperial cousins don't care at all for American football or the somewhat off-beat brand being presented by American service teams.

Cairo papers say American football here is a mere wartime novelty which will die away unnoticed come the peace.

The opening clash of a 12-game schedule undertaken by seven American service teams drew a crowd of spectators, their curiosity whetted by the streamlined versions of football in the movies.

Win Few Fans

The base hospital Rebels and the Quartermaster Green Wave toiled and sweated, passed and punted, but they won few if any football fans among the non-American clientele. Americans conceded the game was not off the top shelf, blaming the weather for the lethargic show.

In our football game party was an Australian correspondent who had played all the English games and had been especially proficient in Aussie football, which is described as a sort of mass mayhem. Although it was his first view of our game, he was among the first to voice the suspicion that this particular game was not exactly pukka.

A South African flight lieutenant friend also got hep quickly and refused to take the weather as an alibi for a bad show, pointing out that his blokes had been running themselves ragged all afternoon at English football on a nearby field.

Some Objections

The Egyptian Mail's Sgt. Paul Irwin, who columns under the name "Exile," closes the door on the American game with such comments as "I now say it is a certain cure for blood pressure, cardiac trouble and insomnia, especially insomnia. . . . My idea of football is action, speed, cut-and-thrust running and 90 minutes of action. What did I get? A game scheduled for an hour lasting two hours 26 minutes, the extra [illegible] minutes being taken up in the arrival (and consumption) of mysterious elixirs in soda pop bottles, milk cans, presumably filled with water, long midfield conferences, healthy manhood lying all over the ground, and interminable substitution of players.

"Why I can produce witnesses to prove that one old Cambridge Rugby Blue went to sleep . . . which is something I haven't seen in sport outside Lord's cricket ground on a warm August afternoon . . . I was glad I took a book along."

E. D. Wright of the Egyptian Gazette devoted only a half column under the heading "This Is Not My Game."

"It belongs to the Americans who must love statistics," writes Wright.

"Hollywood's film editors made a sad mess of my education for football. They featured the mystery of the tactics, huddle, and body-to-body clash but they skipped a vital hint that any game could require so many time-outs. . . . I now love my soccer and my rugger more dearly."

BEAU JACK DANGLES TITLE BEFORE LULU

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Mike Jacobs' champ dollar magnet gets the call to start the 1944 Madison Square Garden fight season in the approved big money tempo tonight when Beau Jack, the New York and Pennsylvania lightweight king, risks his reputation against Lulu Costantino in a non-title 10-rounder. Twelve thousand are expected to look on.

It's 1 to 3 that Jack, the Augusta, Ga., shoeshine boy, will be able to outpunch the clever East Side New Yorker but the dissenters argue that the Beau won't be able to catch Lulu let alone punch him.

In making his first start since winning back his 135-pound crown from Bob Montgomery, the Georgia kid is taking on a fancy dancing master.

Those who like Lulu disregard the New Yorker's recent loss to Frankie Rubino. It's the second big chance for Costantino who blew a featherweight title shot to Chalky Wright in 1942.

Jack expects to carry 137 pounds into the ring and Lulu, usually a feather, must top 135.

Jack is signed for a bout with Sammy Angott in the same arena on Jan. 28.

LACROSS KEEPS ARMORY VICTORY STRING INTACT

Buddy Knox and Angelo Savoldi Also Win In Weekly Program

Buddy Knox, Gil LaCross and Angelo Savoldi were the winners in last night's Armory arena wrestling program.

Knox defeated Rufus Jones of New York City in the final 30-minute event of a double main go program. The [illegible] Tennessee [illegible] to his husky opponent in [illegible] fall but captured the last two falls with back-breaking [illegible] holds. Jones won the first fall in nine minutes with a series of head butts climaxed by a [illegible] hold.

In keeping his current Armory victory string intact, Gil LaCross, the Toledo veteran, won in a superb match with Whitey Walberg. Whitey won the first fall in 17 minutes with a rolling hammer lock. LaCross won the second fall with a [illegible] and grabbed the deciding fall [illegible] cleverly reversing a Whitey [illegible] hammer lock.

Savoldi [illegible] Irish McGee in the 30-minute preliminary, winning [illegible] near the time limit with a pile driver.

Irish Cagers To Play Lima Team Tonight

[illegible] St. Mary [illegible] tangle with Lima St. Gerard [illegible] game [illegible] the St. Mary's [illegible] Tiger [illegible]

[illegible] Wednesday night [illegible] 1943-44 triumph [illegible] reasonably accurate prediction of the fortunes of the [illegible] St. Gerard club is anything but well known hereabouts. The strength of the Lima team is thought to be unknown.

The St. Mary quintet will go into tonight's fray with only the pre-game practice under their belt. But the Irish are not expected to have [illegible] off to any noticeable degree from Wednesday night's sizzling performance.

The Irish lineup probably will be approximately the same one that played the entire game against Richwood—John Gray [illegible] Steve Norris at forwards, Jim Lawler at center and Don McGinnis and Bud Wintersteller at guards. However [illegible] McGraw to be [illegible] Larry Leber, Frank Tudor and Bob Thum seem to be leading candidates for constant replacement service.

Forward McGinnis, checked in the last two St. Mary games against Cardington and Richwood, still leads Irish scoring with 74 points in seven contests. Jim Lawler is steadily approaching McGinnis' point-making total, however, with 56 in the same number of tilts. Lawler was high man in the Richwood game with 10 points. Steve Norris, who tossed in the winning free throw against Richwood, is third with 42 markers. Wintersteller has 33 for fourth position.

OHIO STATE LEAGUE FACES TOUGH GOING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7—It appears that Joe Donnelly, chunky ex-prexy of the defunct Ohio State baseball league, may run into some difficulty Sunday as he attempts not only to revive that Class D loop but to hoist it to an eight-club circuit.

Four of nine cities invited to Sunday's organization meeting indicated today they would not be represented, two others were unheard from, and one uninvited guest was fighting for a franchise.

Hamilton, Lancaster, Mansfield and Marion made up the quartet of "not interested" cities; Lima, Springfield and Middletown were all set to send from two to five delegates; Newark and Zanesville were unheard from, but Fremont—not asked to attend—definitely was bidding for a berth.

Martin (Doc) White, the president of the Fremont club, charter member of the old Ohio State league, said the laws of baseball protected franchise holders, and that the Fremont club had too much money invested in park lights to be "frozen out." He did not say whether he would attend Sunday's session.

Donnelly, "reversing his field" by attempting to organize a league while other circuits are folding, said at least a dozen major league clubs were interested in the proposed circuit and that members would receive players from the big time.

In 1941—the year the old Ohio State league disbanded — the minors hit their peak with 41 leagues in operation. The war shattered that, the list dropping to 24 in 1942, and to nine in 1943. Last season three AA loops operated, along with one A-1 circuit, one class A, two class B and two class D—the latter being the Pony and Appalachian.

"If we are going to have a post-war baseball program," Donnelly said, "we must start building it [illegible] now. Club D leagues are known as schools for ball players, and Ohio is an ideal spot for such a circuit.

"With much of the talent in the army, the big league scouts are on the move all the time trying to find kids who can make the grade. All the big league clubs on their [illegible] trips cross and recross Ohio all season, and the big league managers would have a chance to look over our kids."

Maj. Griffith Sees Good Year for College Football in 1944

[illegible]

* * *

By MAJOR JOHN L. GRIFFITH
Commissioner of Athletics, Big Ten Conference

CHICAGO, Jan. 7—[illegible] 1944 [illegible] of the American people [illegible] primarily because [illegible] improves morale and because [illegible] entertainment [illegible] that Army and Navy officials, for the most part, recognize.

Reviewing 1943 in the collegiate sports front we find the majority of colleges and universities kept their sports programs going. Those institutions of higher learning [illegible] in 1944 [illegible] in 1943 [illegible] year.

1943 will be remembered as one of the most [illegible] in college athletics.

It will be remembered as the year that many college [illegible] gratifying results.

It will be remembered as the year that college football [illegible] belongs on the American [illegible] as a summary [illegible] national morale and as the [illegible] of college athletic programs [illegible] for prospective [illegible]

It will be remembered as the year that [illegible] college men [illegible] the fact that the game of football belongs to them and that they will play the game even when university authorities abandon intercollegiate competition [illegible]

A year ago there were those who thought all the athletes would be in the service and that not enough boys would enroll in colleges in 1943 to provide the [illegible] material for, let us say, football.

The enrollment in colleges in 1943 [illegible] considerably less than [illegible] 1942 yet there [illegible] enough boys [illegible] teams [illegible] In some schools that [illegible] football the boys themselves organized intramural teams and [illegible] played before exceptionally large crowds.

Enough Boys Found

In other institutions where there were no Navy units it was found there were enough boys who played high school football in 1942 to round out 1943 college teams. These teams, made up for the most part of youngsters under 18 years of age, played surprising football.

After the Army announced its ruling denying ASTP students the opportunity to play football and other sports with varsity teams, it was believed by many that these colleges would not be able to put teams on the field. This, too, was found to have been mistaken judgment. The Army boys who would have played football in their free time, had the Army permitted it, may have suffered but the colleges themselves were able to produce teams without the help of older and more mature men who were receiving special training as ASTP students.

Further, there were some people who felt the war would be shortened if the American people spent all their time in serious thought about the awfulness of war and in worrying about the hardships imposed by the war. This attitude, most of us now believe, is wrong. We learned that Russia, fighting for its life, promoted athletics. Germany, England and other countries at war also availed themselves of sports as a balance against despondency.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—No doubt there are plenty of good common sense reasons for re-drawing the baseball map, but we still wonder why major leaguers are so interested in this essentially minor league project.... It's the big league officials who keep pointing out that it is silly to have little leagues over-lapping each other and towns where natural rivalries might develop operating in different circuits. And generally they add that if leagues were more compact and travel expenses were reduced, minor clubs could operate under local ownership and wouldn't have to keep running to their big brothers for help. They might be anticipating another anti-chain move by Judge Landis, of course, but our guess is that last season's declining attendances made the chain operators think about divesting themselves of these expensive appendages.

Shorts and Shells—The story is that Georgia Tech's Eddie Prokop operated like Sammy Baugh without knowing what happened during much of the Sugar Bowl game.... If true, adds Scoop Latimer, the Greenville, O., scribe, "His was the greatest exhibition of a man running (not walking) in his sleep I ever saw."... Bob Steuber (ex-Missouri and Bears) who was the nation's top football scorer for De Pauw last fall has turned up in a Marquette basketball suit as a Navy V-5 trainee.

Quote, Unquote—After the Chicago U. basketball team ended its two-year, 45-game losing streak, Coach Kyle Anderson explained: "We have no trouble over losing men in the draft, but the club has been laboring under a mental strain nevertheless. Most of the fellows are worrying about their dads going into service."

Names Is N'M's — Bob (Hunchy) Hoernschemeyer, Indiana's typographical typhoon who troubled football writers all the past season, played for the Cincinnati American Legion baseball team a few years ago. DEATH PRICE PAID FOR FLAGGING NAZI MORALE

Executions Reported Keeping People in Line.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7—Signs of flagging morale in Germany have brought a wave of death sentences making it impossible for any group to organize a revolution, Christer Jaegerlund, Berlin correspondent of Tidningen, said in a dispatch today.

"A collapse of the home front could be precipitated by doubt as to whether to go on fighting, but today doubters are punished by death," he wrote.

Numerous executions in recent months, Jaegerlund said, have frightened the Germans, quieted defeatist talk and made the people suspicious of one another.

To overthrow the Nazis, the correspondent added, "a real revolution must be organized, but the German people have been stripped of all possibilities to organize a revolt.

Jaegerlund said there is no danger of a food shortage and wrote that German officials say the allies' total bomb war against the reich now is the biggest home front as well as military problem.

[illegible] Bougainville [illegible] jungle [illegible]

By the time we have exterminated the Japanese in the northern Solomons, we will [illegible] one of the finest jungle-trained troops anywhere. Guadalcanal, Rendova, New Georgia, Munda and Kolombangara have taught these men stealth, the art of [illegible] in the jungle and all the tricks of [illegible] offensive in difficult terrain."

Harmon said the American soldier, formerly overcautious, is not inclined to take foolhardy risks, now knows how to use excellent jungle cover. Reconnaissance patrols, once a dangerous operation requiring volunteers, have become routine activity because of a few well-learned rules. The average soldier on Bougainville can go deep into enemy territory and stay 20 days without ill effect.

The troops also have learned to choose a bivouac that is healthy, have become familiar with Japanese combat tricks and have adopted excellent tactics of their own, Harmon said.

"To watch them jump ashore at a new beachhead, move in their equipment with their hands and hearts and beat back the already established Jap is one of the most inspiring sights I ever have been privileged to witness. With their drive and their hate and their know-how, God help the Jap."

HALSEY HINTS TOKYO WON'T BE THERE LONG

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7—When American troops get where Tokyo now stands, there'll be "a little celebration where Tokyo was," says Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of allied forces in the South Pacific.

The comment prefaced Halsey's appearance at the Army-Navy war conference which begins today with discussions by Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army air force chief, and other military officials with west coast civic and business leaders.

Holding his first press conference since his secret return to the mainland New Year's eve, Halsey refused to predict yesterday when the Tokyo celebration would take place, declaring he had done so once (New Year's day, 1943, when he said the Japanese would be defeated in 1943). Speaking of his operational area, he added:

"We have the finest representatives of American manhood ever assembled, and they're fighting as one team. The Japs don't like the way they're fighting—and they'll like it even less."

Halsey said American boys had proved to be better jungle fighters than the Japanese ever were and are killing the enemy at a ratio of ten to one.

NO GUNS FOUND IN M'COY CASKETS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Jan. 7—The oft-repeated theory that the McCoy triple murder guns might have been buried with the victims was dispelled finally today by a search of the caskets.

The bodies of the three were exhumed for autopsies and the caskets shaken down carefully. No weapon could be found, Prosecutor John B. Hill said.

Two pistols—a 32 calibre and a 38—were used in the Thanksgiving eve slaying of wealthy Elmer McCoy, 59; his wife Forrest, 61, and their daughter Mildred, 22. The death weapons never have been found.

James W. Collett, prominent Clinton county hog breeder, is awaiting trial next month in the slayings.

The bodies were lifted from a single grave early today while guards stood around Bloomingburg cemetery. Brought to a mortuary here, they were removed from the coffins and doctors began autopsies which were not performed prior to burial. Hill said the bodies still were in excellent state of preservation.

No report on the autopsies is expected before late in the day.

GERMAN

equal Germany's total number of men under arms, and clearly outnumber the axis divisions on the eastern front.

Only once since the massive Russian offensive began six months ago has Hitler risked a really strong counterattacking force. That was in the battle of the Kiev bulge, which ended with Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein's Nazi-advertised "armored avalanche" being blasted to bits by Gen. Nokolai Vatutin's spectacular breakthrough into old Poland.

One Nazi Advantage

A Germany on the defense still holds an advantage in having communication lines direct to the eastern battlefront for a counterattack—and may yet attempt one —whereas the Red army has been moving up over blasted bridges, shell-torn roads and broken rail lines.

Two great rail trunklines across Poland should have enabled the Germans to pour strong reinforcements direct into the battle zone had the reserve strength been available, or had the Germans been willing to send more men to the east.

In China, and some other Oriental countries, it is considered a breach of etiquette for a person to omit taking off his spectacles in greeting and talking to another person.

BUYERS LOOK AT RAILS TODAY

Specialties Also Draw Attention; Most Industrials Ignored.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Buyers turned to rails and specialties in today's stock market and virtually ignored most industrial and utility leaders.

Mild irregularity prevailed at the start but prices stiffened here and there around midday. Near the fourth hour, fractional advances well distributed. Dealings were under those of the preceding session.

Expectations of a compromise on the carrier wage dispute brought renewed support for the transportation section.

New 1943-44 highs were posted for preferreds of Armour. In the advancing column were Woolworth, U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Oliver Farm, Allied Chemical and Philip Morris. Occasional losers included Chryslers, Westinghouse, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck and Du Pont.

WHEAT PRICES SENT TO CEILING TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 7—Purchases by mills, cash interests and traders who had previously gone short sent all deliveries of wheat to the 1.71⅜ ceiling today. The market became deadlocked at the maximums with insufficient offerings to take care of the bids.

Speculative interest jumped from the wheat to the rye pits after the bread general reached ceilings. All rye contracts gained under a heavy demand. Gains ranged to more than 3 cents at times. Oats and barley were strong. All wheat and all rye contracts were at seasonal peaks.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I AM AFRAID [illegible] to stay here with [illegible] my father said. [illegible] But I [illegible] Bessie and [illegible] of love and anxiety for Mar[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Strenuous Times Ahead

"Take [illegible] rest as much as possible, Richard," he said. "There are [illegible] times ahead of [illegible]."

Dicky grinned [illegible] at me as soon as he was gone.

"I guess [illegible] your headache and my [illegible] handy," he said. "But I'll be back to handle her."

"There won't be any problem," I said confidently. "But I don't think [illegible] want to see her [illegible]."

"[illegible] you did the [illegible] to [illegible] about Carolyn's secret marriage and the way she tried to get Marion to [illegible] along with her," he agreed. "But now I have another [illegible] of your father's to carry out. Where do you want to rest, couch or arm chair?"

"I don't want to—" I began but Dicky strode over and stood truculently over me.

"I'm trying to be a little gentleman," he said, "but you're going to [illegible], if I have to crack you down. Choose your perch."

Chooses Arm Chair

"Very well. I choose the arm chair, but only on condition that you sit down and keep me company."

"What did you think I was going to do, my daily dozen?" he quipped, as he sat down opposite me. Then his lips curved into the familiar comradely smile I love.

"How do you do, Mrs. Graham," he said. "It's so nice to see you again. I don't know when I've had an opportunity for a chat with you. What shall we talk about, Shakespeare and the musical glasses, or something more up to date?"

"Just so we're together, I don't care if we chant 'Mary's Little Lamb, that faithful animule,' the way Faith does!" I said fervently.

"The darling baby!" Dicky said. "It seems an eternity since we've seen the children. Do you remember—"

Exchange Reminiscences

And then we were off, in reminiscences of Faith and Junior, and of Roderick, Dicky's orphaned nephew, who is being brought up as our own child. Only parents separated, if only for a little while, from their children, can understand our enjoyment, though tinged with nostalgia, in going over mental photographs of our absent youngsters.

But our reminiscences did not last long. A knock on the door, Philip Veritzen's, as it turned out, brought them to an abrupt end.

The great impresario was clutching hard at his customary poise and dignity. But they slipped a bit as he sat down rather heavily in the chair Dicky brought forward for him.

"I knew it would be bad seeing that—that—"

[illegible]

A Good Thing

"Do you know," Dicky [illegible] "I think it's a good thing Bessie [illegible] in a concentration camp, when it finally penetrates through his alleged brain that he isn't going to have his job back. Sooner or later you would have had to fire him for his general cussedness, and then I don't [illegible] your life would have been worth the time-honored tinker's dam. But by the time—"

He broke off abruptly, and I knew he was ruefully regretting not having stopped sooner. Philip Veritzen finished his sentence for him.

"By the time he gets out I won't be worrying about probable assassins," he said with a sardonic smile. "Thank you both for letting me blow off steam. I had to get the disgust out of my system. And now I must go back, pick up Mary and Olina and go down to that special rehearsal I've called for this afternoon."

He reached the door before adding a postscript.

"I'd like to see Charles before the performance tonight," he said. "Despite Steve's fawning attitude I'd be a bit easier if I knew just where he was going to be while John Hayes is taking his role tonight."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Causes of Headache

HEADACHE is said to account for at least 20% of absenteeism from routine duties.

The head is a very delicate barometer of health. There are few infectious diseases that are not ushered in by a headache. Nearly any derangement of the bodily economy may be signalized by a headache. If the environment is not conducive to smooth physiologic functioning of the body the head gives the warning. The stuffy, overheated office, or the noisy schoolroom, even the automobile journey in fresh air which flashes objects past the eyes demanding a dozen refocusings a minute—all result in the red signal of headache.

The headaches mentioned in the above paragraph are acute, due to temporarily acting causes. They are not particularly puzzling and they yield to simple analgesics—such as aspirin, phenacetin or acetanilid.

The headaches that require skill and attention to treat are the chronic, regular or recurrent headaches. These may be classified as follows:

Regional Headaches

Due to trouble localized near where the pain is, i. e. in the head.

1—Brain and meninges—these are very rare.

2. Ocular imbalance.

3. Ear and mastoid disease.

4. Deformities and infections of the nose, sinus disease. Neuralgias of the nerves of the face and scalp.

Headaches of Systemic Origin

1. Chronic infections—gallbladder or pelvic organs in women.

2. Generalized changes — high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, kidney trouble, Bright's disease, chronic intestinal [illegible]

[illegible]

5. Eyestrain [illegible]

The recurrent headache of the [illegible]

The postprandial headache in the fat middle-aged epicure suggests gallbladder disease.

Gland Headache

Upset of any of the endocrines—thyroid, adrenal, pituitary glands—may increase pressure of the blood vessels inside the skull and bring on a headache. Menopause headache is of this character.

Not long ago I had all the chronic headaches in a big clinic sent to me for study. Eighty per cent of them were [illegible] of migraine.
